

ACCESS SERVICES WOW. AND NEXT.

We believe everyone deserves to be wowed by compelling content. Red Bee Media's Access Services unlock content for audiences with visual or hearing needs. These services are pivotal in ensuring equal content for everyone, everywhere.

You gain three distinct benefits: your audiences enjoy equal access, you fulfil regulatory requirements, and — in a highly competitive marketplace — it enhances your brand profile.

What's more, Access Services are not just for people with visual and hearing impairments. A growing number of viewers with adequate hearing are opting to use subtitles — either because they might be watching content in an environment that restricts audio from their device, or because they find it easier to follow the program with textual back-up.

HOW WE BRING ACCESS SERVICES TO LIFE

Our dedicated studios and talented team of VO artists and technicians have a vast amount of experience, ensuring your captioning, subtitling and VOs are second-to-none. This leaves you to focus with confidence on opportunities for customer choice, market development, audience loyalty, and other areas of growth.

With our built-in multilingual capabilities and a global team of more than 400 experts, our Access Services will enrich your content, wowing your audience - however they choose to experience it.

Red Bee provided live captioning, live sign-language translation and audio description to make this the first-ever completely accessible Paralympic Games.

We assembled, trained and rehearsed a dedicated global talent team, using cutting-edge technology to deliver the highest possible standards. We employed deaf translators, hearing interpreters and our state-of-the-art live production platform, Subito, to achieve live subtitling and captioning to achieve a minimum standard of over 99% accuracy.

This broadcasting landmark resulted in nearly 1,000 hours of live captioning across Channel 4, More4 and ten online streams, supported by audio description and sign language. It dramatically brought the Paralympics to life for millions of viewers around the world.
